

The 2025 F1 boom in China caused an abnormal price surge for Topps Helmet Cards. Data reveals this was driven by an influx of new female fans influenced by fashion and celebrity culture. Rather than treating cards as traditional display pieces, they use them as outfit accessories and trendy lifestyle items on social media. This demographic shift inspires a new direction for the industry. Future trading card designs must break male-dominated aesthetic boundaries, evolving into inclusive, expressive, and wearable lifestyle accessories that resonate with a new generation of collectors.
